Dear Jessie,

I have reviewed the data as regards disposal of wastewater from the Renegade Parts Washer (RPW). This data, along with information contained in the MSDS would lead me to believe the discharge from the RPW would meet the limitations as required in the Columbus Indiana Sewer Use Ordinance. Limitations may be more stringent in the event this process is used in an Industrial User (IU) subject to EPA categorical standards.

The IU is responsible for notifying the Columbus City Utilities Pretreatment Department for any process change which may influence the wastewater discharge. An evaluation would be made at that time whether the IU is subject to an Industrial Discharge Permit or would be regulated under the administrative guidelines given in the Sewer Use Ordinance.

Again, I do not initially see a problem in terms of compliance in the use of the RPW, however, in the event problems were to occur as a result of the use of the this process, the Pretreatment Department would need to re-evaluate the situation.

If you have any questions or need further information, please contact me at 812-376-2400, ext. 474.

Sincerely,

Garry Pugh
